The work is one of the greatest public officers desire to feast their eyes on the E !! the responsibility, capacity and character completed. of the contractors and into the genuineness and honesty of their bids. The Aqueduct Commission is not compelled to award the work to the lowest idder, but is at liberty to decide which bid is the best for the interests of the city. As the honesty, capacity and fidelity of the Poard have been tested and are undisputed, it is judicious and desirable that it should be invested with this discretionary power.

The Chief Engineer of the new aqueduct is fully capable and careful and has had and story, so to speak, will tremble with long experience in the work. His estimates for the dam are a little over $4,000 .-000. One bid is more than $1,000,0.0 below these estimates.

construction has proved to the Commission that it is most difficult to guard against frauds in construction when the work is bidden. The gross frauds perpetrated by some of the aqueduct contracors are notorious. Portions of the workwere done over again, but the city suffered, and is to-day sued by the contractors for millions of dollars damages.

The greatest care should be taken that none of the contractors who did fraudulent and faulty work on the squeduct, and are now suing the city, have any share or interest in any of the bids for the construction of the dam. However responsible may be the sureties offered by a bidder, the Commission should be entirely satisfied as to his honesty and reliability before intrusting him with a work of such vast importance to the public interests as the new dam

A bid flagrantly below what honest work will cost is always suspicious. Such a bid is almost always made with the intention of trusting to evasions of the specifications, faulty work, damages or extra allowances to make up the de-

FAIR ON JERSEY'S HEIGHTS

$12.55 for the Babies.

There is a vacant house on Vroom street, girls and bright-laced boys were seen going alcohol and winding carefully on a board to in and out, and a peep through the windows revealed the cause of the commelton.

Tables were set with rang goods and refreshments, and a beys of prestly misses fitted here and there attending to the wants of children and adults who had been here.

A fair was being held for the Sick Baby Fund and Jersey tity Heights children turned out in force to lend a hand to make it secess ut.

Liftle Gertrude Norris and Florence Stevens were the originators of the plan assisted by liattle Armstrong and other friends. They worked like beavers for a week and gathered together a lot of things to be sold, and the owner of the vacant house gave the use of the premises for the fair.

The Big Hat for July Days.

The coolest looking sight on a July day is a girl with a big hat of white and pale green and a gown to match. She may have to be careful to keep the delicate leaf color away colors. But that can generally be easily

If one's face is a little sallow the broad orim may be a shirring of creamy mull that will not war with the complexion, and the twists and loops of green may be all on the top of the hat.

If one's skin is perfect in its rosiness one may wear the green anywhere. There is only one danger—that the wearer of these Spring colors will be too suggestive of a head
